

Artlink Hull is recruiting a new Chair of Trustees

Artlink supports the creation and exploration of art with, in and about communities. In particular we work with individuals and communities experiencing disadvantage to increase the diversity of voices in the arts. We do this through a range of ways including art projects, exhibitions, events, commissions, learning programmes and forums, working with a range of communities. We have a particular focus on the visual arts and working with disabled people, children and young people and communities experiencing high levels of deprivation. Established since 1982, Artlink has continually been involved in the development of community, participatory and socially-engaged art practices and remains a key organisation in the Humber region working in these fields.

Artlink Hull Aims and Values

Artlink Hull is a charitable arts organisation whose work supports the creation and exploration of art with, in and about communities.

Our core aim is to ensure that people from communities which experience disadvantage have opportunities to engage in creative expression.

We were originally founded to work in the area of art and disability and with the continued disadvantages people with disabilities face within society this is still a key area for us.

We believe that more diverse participation in the arts benefits both individuals and society and adds to the quality and depth of the arts.

We believe in the value of art created through collaborative processes and in the power of cultural exchange to influence social change.

We work to provide development and learning opportunities for artists and community members.

We recognise that ideas around art and communities are complex and contested and we want to explore and increase dialogue about them.

We take a broad view of what is art and want to play a role in exploring this though we work mainly within visual art and in particular in socially engaged art.

Our base is Hull in the Humber region and this is where we undertake the majority of our work. While we are locally focused we work with artists and partners nationally and internationally.

Our building is an arts hub and venue. However we do much of our work outside of it and place importance on creating and displaying artwork outside of gallery settings and in communities.

Being based in a city impacted significantly by economic decline, we are interested in the role of art in communities that experience this, especially coastal ones.

Our work manifests itself in different ways: exhibitions, projects, workshops, training, forums, events, public art, but all stem from our core aims and interests.

We partner with organisations both inside and outside of the arts, especially those that work closely with different communities and believe this adds strength and depth to the work that we do.
